Vital measure needs two-thirds majority at election on June 10

Voters within the city limits of Campbell next Tuesday, June 10, will cast ballots on the crucial $625,000 park bond issue, which will allow this city to acquire and develop one of the last remaining open space areas within the city for future public use and also to improve eight neighborhood parks at schools within the city.

Unless the bond issue passes by a two-thirds majority vote, an eight-acre parcel adjacent to the present city-owned Rincon Park will be developed into a 288-unit four-story apartment complex.

The polls in the 14 consolidated precincts that have been established for the bond election will be open from 7 a.m. to 7 p.m.

The bond issue will also provide funds ($80,000) for the development of eight neighborhood parks at schools within the city limits under a joint program with parent-teacher groups and the school district.

Each of eight schools, seven in the Campbell district and one, Coventry, in the Moreland district will be allocated $10,000 for the improvement of neighborhood parks.

The bond issue also provides $200,000 for planning and development of the parks and $210,000 for site acquisition.

The seven Campbell schools that will participate in the neighborhood park development program are San Tomas, Hazelwood, Rosemary, Dover, Capri, Forest Hills and Rolling Hills.

The plan endorsed, by the school district, provides for the improvement for recreational purposes land at the schools now unused for the most part.

However, what makes the bond issue of such importance to the citizens of Campbell is that the now undeveloped eight acres adjacent to the present seven-acre Rincon Park will be lost forever for recreational uses, if the issue fails to get the necessary two-thirds majority next Tuesday.

In October 1967, a park measure for $825,000 barely failed to get the necessary two-thirds vote (about 65% favored it then). If the issue had passed then, funds would have been available for purchase of the eight acres and the current apartment problem would have not arisen.

The present park bond measure was drafted when plans for the apartment complex had been presented and approved. However, the developers have been persuaded to sell the property to the city rather than to continue with the plans for the apartments. If the bonds fail, however, they will go ahead with the apartments.

The only means the city has of obtaining the necessary financing is through the bond issue.

In October, 1967, the park bonds were presented and recommended by a citizens com-

'Auto-house' to replace outhouses on creek

Planning Commission members were on-the-fence for quite a spell Monday night over outhouses.

But in deFENSE of their fence-sitting activities those ofFENSive outhouses, long an eye-sore along Los Gatos Creek in full view of motorists on the freeway, may finally be eliminated.

That is, provided the conditions levied by the Planning Commission in granting a permit for a vehicle storage yard in the area where the outhouses are now, are carried out by the applicant.

A 10-foot high fence along the creek was the main feature of the evening.

Veronica Coen of the Courtesy Towing Service, represented by Jack Dawson, local attorney, was granted an interim permit for a storage yard for wrecked and abandoned vehicles at 282 Dillon Ave., after a lengthy discussion on the issue.

A number of civic groups, including Campbell Citizens for Beautification, Campbell Garden Club and Campbell JayCees had filed protests against the proposed use for the site, claiming that attempts had been made for years to cleanup the creek bank and eliminate the outhouses. They felt that the proposed storage yard for vehicles was not much of an improvement.

But it was Thayer Lyons who brought the issue into focus when he submitted that the 10-foot high fence along the creek which would conceal the activities from the freeway would be at least a 200% improvement to the present situation, especially with the added condition that the outhouses must first be out.

Lyons added that, although the area was now "frozen" and was under study in the federal Neighborhood Planning Program, it probably would be two years before anything would develop there.

He also suggested that the permit be issued for one year and only extended for an additional year, as requested, provided the operators had met all the conditions.

Representatives of the Garden Club present at the meeting reluctantly agreed that the new use would be better than the outhouses and that the fence would certainly be helpful, especially if the exterior area was landscaped,

First 'PruneYard' plans get okay

"The Prune Yard", the multi-million dollar shopping center at Bascom and Campbell avenues adjacent to the 18-story "The Towers" now up to nine floors, got the go signal for the first phase of construction from the Planning Commission Monday night.

Approval was given the plans for Phase I submitted by Fred Sahadi, joint developer with Pittsburgh-Des Moines Steel of the project, that include three theaters and 52,000 square feet of rental sales area.

The three theaters will have seating for 316, 480 and 275, respectively, and will be located in the main plaza of the Spanish-styled center. The plans provide for 458 parking spaces.

Before the plans were approved, discussion centered around the question of whether Phase I represented a substantial difference in the original site plan that had been presented.

Although there had been a change in the location of some of the proposed buildings and there was some question as to whether the parking space ratio would have to be modified for the entire project, the Commission decided that, basically, there was no substantial change and approved the plans for Phase I without going into the overall site plan again.

Sahadi explained that from time to time it would be necessary to change the locations of buildings because of the desire of proposed tenants. But the basic design of the entire center would not be altered.

The Commission also agreed with his request to allow the landscaping plans to be deferred until occupancy so that it would be keeping with the use of the structures.

Eliminated from the drawings were roughed-in buildings that might be in the way of any off-or-on-ramps from the freeway that might be constructed in the future.

City may ask forfeiture of bond by agency in police car deal

Campbell City Council next Monday night may, for the first time, ask for a forfeiture of a bond from an automobile agency because of the failure of that firm to deliver three police cars in the allotted time.

According to City Manager Bob Stephens, Grant Bishop of Los Gatos, the successful bidder last February for three police cars, has been unable to deliver the vehicles in the specified time.

The firm has been notified that, unless the cars are forthcoming by next Monday, June 9, at 5 p.m., steps will be taken by the city to confiscate the $770 performance bond that has been deposited by the agency.

The City Council next Monday also will discuss the proposed study area that will be included in the application for federal redevelopment aid under the Neighborhood Planning Program, a Department of Housing and Urban Affairs (HUD) divison.

One of the points will be the recommendation of the Planning Commission made Monday night which would extend the southern boundaries of the proposed study area to Kennedy Ave. instead of stopping at Alice Ave., as was first proposed.

Tentatively the study area would extend from Winchester Ave. on the west to Latimer on the north to the railroad tracks and Kennedy on the south. The Gilman-Railway-Dillon area would also be included. A total of about 120 acres is involved.

Dr. Wallace Hall, president of West Valley College, was present at the Planning Commission meeting and indicated that the college now leasing on a temporary basis the old Campbell Grammar School, which takes a good portion of the area, would cooperate in the study.

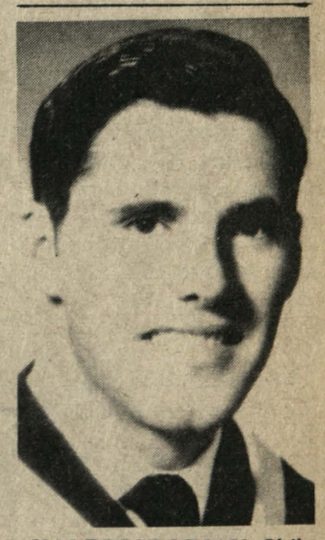
Commissioner Dale Scott questioned Dr. Hall if the possibility, as had been suggested by William Homan, college trustee, that a college administrative center should be located in Campbell, had been explored, especially in relation to any projected bond issue that was planned.

Hall explained that no details on the bond issue had been discussed as yet or no definite date for the election had been set but that it could be either this fall or some time next year.

The Council is also expected to discuss next Monday relating to the same matter the possible formation of a citizens advisory committee to work with the City Council on the Neighborhood Planning Program, a requirement of HUD.

The committee representing a cross-section of the area involved would have 12 to 15 members.

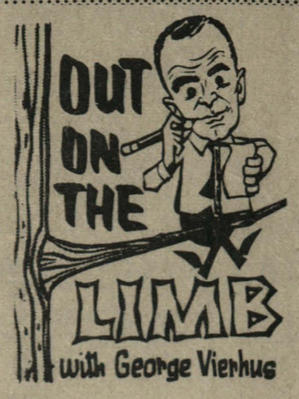
Up for City Council approval next Monday night also will be the proposed plans for a city entrance sign to be located at Camden and San Tomas Expressway submitted by the Campbell JayCees.



VALEDICTORIAN---Phillip John Lauro, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Lauro, Sr., of 215 S. San Tomas Road, was valedictorian of the graduating class of the University of San Francisco at the commencement exercises which took place in the Civic Auditorium in San Francisco on Sunday. He was also commissioned a second lieutenant in the US Army at the same time.

Phillip, who was born in San Jose, July 27, 1947, has been a resident of this area all his life, graduating from St. Lucy's School in 1961 and Bellarmine Prep in 1965. He has two younger brothers, John, Jr., 20, and Jeffrey, 16. After his two-year army tour of duty he plans to enter Stanford University to obtain his law degree and M.B.A. He hopes eventually to enter domestic politics or the State Department.

He received many scholastic honors while at USF and, in addition, took part in many extra-curricular activities, including the serving as treasurer of the student body last year.



THAT THERE IS A crisis in the city that can only be solved by a YES vote next Tuesday (June 10) seems to be quite obvious.

We simply mean that, unless the $625,000 park bond measure passes by the necessary two-thirds majority vote, the death knell will have sounded for any future park and recreational areas in this community.

We call that a crisis in any language.

The eight-acre parcel adjacent to Rincon Park is one of the last available "open-spaces" within the city limits that can be utilized for park and recreational purposes.

And, if the bond measure fails to pass, those eight acres have been spoken for.... On that open land that would be available for public use, a four-story apartment complex will be constructed.

The bond issue is necessary for the city to obtain the funds so the eight acres can be acquired.

In October 1967, a $800,000 park bond issue failed by only a few votes to get the necessary two-thirds voter approval.

The park measure had been submitted only after an intensive study had been made by a grass-roots citizens committee headed by Hank Cary, now an active member of the Parks and Recreation Commission.

In October, 1967, the measure, as we said, failed to get the two-thirds majority by only a few votes (the vote in favor was more than 64%).

And at the time there was no issue about an apartment complex taking over possible park land. (Incidentally, if the 1967 park measure had passed, there would be no apartment problem today. That measure provided funds for acquisition of the property in question.)

We sincerely believe it is necessary for the welfare of this community that the park bond issue passes next Tuesday.

We ask your support by casting a YES vote.

THERE IS A TENDENCY on our part to become so enthusiastic about our community and its potential that we fail to realize that there may be some who may not share the same feelings.

We plead guilty to that defect.

Y'see after sitting in this chair all these years, just sorta hoping that something would jell in this community in which we have so much at stake, it becomes a wee bit difficult to put the lid on when things do begin to pop, as they have recently.

It was almost inconceivable, to us, for example, when a Campbell Little League director claimed in the office that there had been no endorsement by the Little League (we assume he meant the adults and not the players) of the park bond issue, as was listed in last week's Press.

Now we concede that The Press published the list of endorsements as was furnished by the bond campaign committee without checking whether any board of directors had actually taken official action.

As a matter of fact, we did not verify any of the endorsements.

Perhaps the committee was premature in its listing of the Campbell Little League.

BUT, HOLY COW, JUST what in the heck is the park bond issue for anyhow, if it isn't to provide recreational areas for youngsters?

And the Campbell Little League ball field at Rosemary School is a prime example of what the future holds for other schools on the park bond program. That field received considerable support from both the city and the school

Vote YES Tuesday

The citizens of Campbell have an important decision to make on Tuesday, June 10, for this community faces an emergency.

Next Tuesday, we will have the opportunity through means of the ballot box to protect, preserve and reserve one of this community's few open space parcels that remain within the city.

On Tuesday, June 10, the citizens of Campbell vote on the vital $625,000 park bond measure.

The Campbell Press urges an affirmative vote on the issue. We sincerely believe it is imperative that the City of Campbell acquire this open space parcel NOW. Otherwise it will be lost forever.

The bond issue provides funds, not only for site acquisition ($201,000) but also for planning and development ($200,000).

In addition, $80,000 has been earmarked for the development of neighborhood parks at eight different schools in conjunction with the school district and home and school clubs.

We are convinced that this is the last chance that the city will have to acquire the needed property for the central park on Rincon Ave.

If the bond issue fails, a 288-unit, four-story apartment complex will be constructed on the property adjacent to the park.

That is a foregone conclusion and is no idle threat.

The bond issue was scheduled only after the owners of the property on which the huge apartment was to be built agreed to sell the eight acres to the city.

The apartment plans had been submitted for approval by the city.

A YES vote next Tuesday will assure that the eight acres will be developed for parks and recreational purposes.

The bond issue must carry by two-thirds majority.

You recall that in October, 1967, the $800,000 park bond issue was one of the six measures on the ballot up for electorate approval.

At that time, four of the measures received the necessary two-thirds approval. The park bonds received almost 64% approval, failing to get the necessary two-thirds by only a relatively few votes.

If the park bond issue had carried in 1967, the problem of the apartment complex adjacent to Rincon Park would not exist today, for the bonds in 1967 would have provided funds for acquisition of the property for the park.

We hold that, if it was feasible to present a $800,000 park bond issue to the voters in 1967, then there is no question about the need today.

There was no real emergency existing in October, 1967 when the park issue missed by only a few votes of getting the full two-thirds approval.

At that time, plans for the apartment complex were not in evidence. As a matter of fact, the possibility of such a development did not occur to anyone.

We believe that had the same apartment issue been raised then, the 1967 park bond measure would have passed overwhelmingly.

But an emergency now exists. There was no such emergency in 1967.

The die has been cast.

If the bonds fail this time, up goes an apartment house, forever closing off the expansion of the park.

We submit that a YES vote next Tuesday, June 10, is the ONLY way that open space property adjacent to the park can be saved for the public use of this community.

The city-owned Rincon Park now consists of seven acres.

There is a presently-unused six-acre parcel adjacent to it owned by the Campbell Union School District earmarked for recreational purposes by the district that can be developed with the city park.

There is a small county-owned parcel also adjacent to Rincon Park that can also be acquired with bond funds ($31,000).

With the eight acres on which apartments will go unless the bond issue is passed, all this will make a total of more than 23 acres that will be available for park and recreational purposes so badly needed by this community now and more so in the future.

We also especially like the idea of the neighborhood park concept.

The plan is to allocate $10,000 to each of eight schools within the city limits for the improvement of now unimproved land at the schools.

Obviously $10,000 will not in itself do a great deal for each of these parks.

But the objective is to develop these areas in a joint effort with the school district, the schools themselves and the parent and teacher groups also participating.

So we maintain that the parks are important, even if an emergency did not exist.

But an emergency DOES exist.

We feel it is paramount that the fast-depleting open space within our city limits be preserved for public use.

AND a YES vote next Tuesday is the ONLY way this can be done.

We urge you to VOTE YES on Tuesday, June 10, for the $625,000 park bond measure.

district in the past.

In our opinion, not only should the Campbell Little League endorse the bond issue but the league members should be in the forefront leading the way to the polls.

And did anyone poll the kids?

But there we go again.

DEDICATED CITIZENS of this community, without a single axe to grind other than to make a better community, have worked long hours in this park bond campaign.

We have first hand knowledge of that. (No board of directors vote is necessary.)

The committee, for the record, has operated on a mighty slim budget, for contributions did not flood in.

True, we suppose it can be said, that no money whatsoever was necessary.

Just let the people vote. Period.

But sincere civic-minded people with a firm goal don't operate thataway. They want to inform the public of how important the issue really is to the community.

We had hoped that more of the civic organizations would have come through.

Especially after we learned that one service club had allocated $100 for a float in the San Jose Fiesta parade.

We would have thought that providing park areas that would serve this community for years and years was as important as a parade in San Jose that lasts for a couple of hours.

But there again, we may be too Campbell-conscious.

You see we live and work here and not in San Jose.

So our slip is showing.

LEARNING THE ENGlish language, we have always understood, really presents a difficulty for those of other nationalities.

Heck, some of us who have worked at it all our lives, still have problems with our syntax.

But the other night at the City Council meeting there was an illustration of how confused a person who was just learning the language could have become. (There was no such person there, fortunately.)

(And, of course, we must concede that the City Council meeting would not be a good language laboratory in the first place.)

Anyway to get back to the illustration.

It had to do with the discussion on trees on the major streets; a commendable project, everyone agreed, but there are problems.

Bill Wren, public works director, started it off with a review of the street-planting project of the past year.

In effect, he said that the trees along Winchester that were planted were sort of messy...because the dirt and water spilled on the sidewalks.

And deep holes around the trees could be hazardous.

He suggested that a steel grate had been found that could be placed around the tree.

But the grates cost $80 each and with the cost of the tree ($45), that would bring the total of each tree to $125.

When multiplied by 40, that would come to something like $5000, a sizeable sum.

The Council agreed to put $2000 (the same as this year) in the budget for the trees with the added hope that maybe interested residents or civic organizations might supplement the project.

But the councilmen told Bill to forget the idea of the grates for the time being.

And that's when we mentally cringed for the person who just might have been around to learn the language.

The councilmen thought the idea of the grate was great. Or at least the grate idea was good, if not great.

You can imagine how that particular discussion would have sounded to a poor guy just learning the language.

Come to think of it, we have taken so long to make our point, it all must be sort of grating to you.

YOU WILL BE HAPPY TO know that Stan Becker, who has ambitious plans to convert the old Sunsweet plant into a plush interior with restaurants and art galleries, has promised there would be no "hippies" in the joint.

Becker has named the old Sunsweet job "The Wrinkled Prune Annex" and has been going through the necessary official steps to get the property rezoned.

At the City Council level, Becker was asked the direct question by Councilman Bill Smeed, as to the type of art he envisioned in his galleries and would he cater to the "hippy" trade.

"Peace", intoned Becker, raising his hand.

Then he emphatically stated that he planned to show only blue ribbon art and that "hippies" would not be tolerated.

Peace.

which also had been suggested.

The location and height of the fence concerned the commissioners because, as Attorney Dawson had pointed out, the terrain varied in height and there appeared to be no need for a 10-foot high job all around the area.

Finally adopted was Commissioner Merrill Grim's proposal that would put a 10-foot high fence along the creek next to the city's almost-completed corporation yard. (It was thought the city would cooperate on fencing.) The balance of the area would have the so-called security type of fence.

Stipulated, also, was the removal of the outhouses, whose ownership at the present time, Dawson explained, was rather questionable. He added that he and his client would take the lead in petitioning to have Fire Chief George Maxwell use them in a "control burn" project.

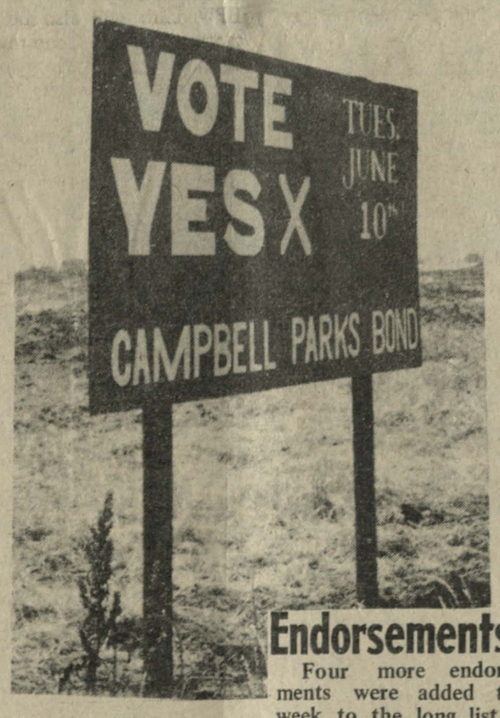
Commissioner Frank Klein cast the lone negative vote on the issue. Favoring it were Chairman Ed Pack, Lyons, Grim, Jack Healey, Norm Paul and Dale Scott.

In other actions, the Commission approved the plans for a 152-unit apartment complex, with access onto El Patio, on the triangular shaped Keesling property. Plans were submitted by Guild West.

Approval was also given Sterling Homes for plans for an addition to their office building at 477 Dell Ave. and to Leo Freschi for an office/warehouse on Sunnyoaks.

Action on the plans for a carwash operation at Winchester and Kennedy was deferred until June 16, as was the continued public hearing on the McGlincey Neighborhood use plan that has been under discussion for some time.

The Commission also recommended for approval the zone change request of A. L. Bowen (from R-1 to C-2-S) for property at 2097 S. Bascom Ave. The front portion of the property was already zoned C-2-S.



Endorsements

Four more endorsements were added this week to the long list of organizations favoring the park bond issue next Tuesday, June 10.

Campbell Chamber of Commerce, Campbell Jay Cees, the Planning Commission and the Police Auxiliary joined the parade of community groups favoring "the now or never" bond issue that has for its theme "SAVE OUR PARKS".

mittee after months of research. It was felt then that the measure was needed by the community.

Bill Podgorsek, chairman of the committee for parks, maintains that the threat of the apartment complex on the proposed park area has made it imperative that the citizens take action via the ballot box to protect the community from the apartment encroachment.

A grass-roots committee, composed of residents from every area of the city, has been working diligently in an effort to acquaint the citizenry with the desperate situation that confronts the city as far as available open space is concerned.

A bond headquarters at the Congregational Church on W. Campbell Ave., manned by volunteers will be open from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. and from 7 p.m. to 9 p.m. daily until the election. Phone numbers are 379-3750 and 379-3550.

Interested citizens are asked to contact the bond headquarters to see what they can do to assist other community-minded citizens in getting the message of "Save Our Parks" across to the electorate.

Podgorsek emphasized that every vote counts. He appealed for all civic-minded citizens to go to the polls next Tuesday.

"It is a crucial period in this city's history", the chairman said. "We are fighting for the welfare and betterment of the community. We need your supports to "Save Our Parks".

Judges to make topless rulings

In the meantime, the A coholic Beverage Commissio (ABC) ordered the license The Classy Chassy revoke A demurrer was filed on th also. Superior Judge Josep P. Kelly was slated to rule o that demurrer today (Wedne day).

Women unite with BPW for representation

Women, the time has come to band together for the advancement of the "equal rights" of women. And by "equal rights" the members of the Campbell Business and Professional Women's Club are thinking more about equalizing wages for working women who are holding down responsible jobs but receiving less wages because they are women, even if they are heads of the household.

Women are also being urged to consider the Social Security setup which actually deprives a married working woman of her contribution towards Social Security when it comes to retirement benefits. These and other questions of vital interest to women will be part of the non-partisan roundtable program that the Campbell BPW will be participating in following the return of Dorothy Trevethan, president of the women's organization, who recently returned from the 49th annual state convention held in Los Angeles.

A roundtable will be organized in every city throughout the state for the exchange of information on legislative items and other matters of interest to women. The local BPW club will also be contacting other community women's organizations to register their interests in this field.

All interested women are invited to contact the local BPW for information and action.

Enjoys island garden trip

Mrs. Clifford Moore of Milton Ave. recently returned from a lovely week spent in Hawaii as a member of the California Garden Club, Inc. President Tour. She was accompanied by her friend, Mrs. F. P. Koenig of Alameda.

While there they enjoyed visiting several private gardens and came home marveling over the orchids growing live hedges and all of the other wonderful flowers. A trip to the garden island, Kauai, was a high point of the week. While in the Islands they stayed at the new Surf Riders hotel.

Here's Guide to Air Conditioning

Many people are confused by the technicalities of central system air conditioning, uncertain about what they are buying, and concerned about getting value for their money.

Here's a simple, direct guide to the subject:

Central air conditioning is a complete home system, cooling at a comfort level in the same way a furnace warms at comfort level — in fact, the cooling and heating systems frequently can be mechanically combined, although this is not necessary.

Visualize it this way, suggests Chrysler Airtemp, maker of all types of heating and cooling equipment:

Central system air conditioning removes heat from the air when the thermostat says it is too hot; the central heating system warms the air when the thermostat says it's too cold. The two systems thus provide a comfort level control for year-round, whole-house conditioning.

Central systems may also add the benefits of humidity control, filtering out contaminants and pollens from the air, and reduction of cooking odors, and grease build-up — in other words, all the pleasures of a generally freshened house. For these benefits, an electronic air cleaner and a humidifier are added. This overall approach to the house environment is called the "total comfort concept."

For a basic cooling system, a homeowner may pay from 50c a square foot in a new house to $1 a square foot in an existing house, depending on such variables as age, condition, insulation, the presence or absence of heating ductwork, and local labor costs.

Operating expenses also vary, according to the size of the equipment, geographic region, and local utility rates. Annual central air operating costs can run from a low of about $40 to a high of about $180. These are very rough cost guidelines, but will help in considering anticipated expenses when central air conditioning is planned.

These costs are an investment in the future. Installation is a permanent improvement of the house, increasing its value and frequently returning as much as $2000 to the homeowner when it comes time to resell.

According to a survey by the U.S. Savings and Loan League, air conditioning will become a standard feature in $20,000-plus homes by 1972; it will become a standard feature in homes that sell for less by 1977. With this kind of forecasting, the sellers' market could be rough for homes without air conditioning in as little as five years.

Next step should be to consult a dealer. Have him inspect the home and determine the best kind of system. If the home has a forced air heating system with insulated ductwork, it will be suitable for component air conditioning — normally the same ducts are used for both cooling and heating.

A dealer may, for example, base his estimate on adding a cooling coil to the furnace, installing a condenser-compressor outside, running connecting lines, and replacing your furnace blower motor with a heavy-duty type. He may also recommend replacing old wall registers with two-way diffusers.

He will probably suggest an electronic air cleaner and humidifier.

If the present furnace is unsuitable for add-on air conditioning, the dealer may recommend an independent cooling system with its own ductwork. Little interior area is sacrificed, for equipment is compact and well designed, suitable for installation in a basement, crawl space, attic or closet.

Or, the dealer may suggest replacing the old furnace with a new gas- or oil-fired unit with forced air central heating.

New Bathrooms, Most Wanted, Get New Ideas

As homes get older and families grow larger, the bathroom continues to lead the lists of most-wanted home improvements.

For homeowners planning to remodel or add a bathroom this year, here are some points to keep in mind.

The trend is to larger bathrooms. A 5x7 size was standard a few years ago. Today it's more likely to be 7x8 or 7x10 feet.

Another trend is to more color. Popular are yellow, pink and blue, but bolder colors such as red and orange are gaining in favor.

New products make the idea of bathroom remodeling even more appealing. Among them are off-the-floor water closets, for good appearance and easier cleaning, and vanity lavatories, with countertops, shelves or drawers.

Tubs come extra-long, extra-low or extra deep to suit preferences.

Both faucets and showerheads offer a wide range of controls to preset temperatures and regulate water flow.

Even medicine cabinets make news, with two compartments, swing or sliding doors and integral lighting.

STARTING WITH NEW LIGHTING to give over-all illumination and decorating impact, a drab old bathroom undergoes an elegant makeover. Wallpaper, new ceramic tile, perhaps a built-in vanity and new medicine cabinet help to create a special look.

BUILT-IN COOKING EQUIPMENT MAKES the difference in this kitchen, giving the room a bright uncluttered appearance. The double wall oven is complemented by a surface cooking unit that includes a built-in barbecue well. Suggested by Hotpoint.

PACKAGES AWAY---Rosemary School children in the second and fifth grade classes are shown with James Hurley, Postmaster, sending off two of the 13 packages they have prepared for children in less fortunate areas of our own country.

Rosemary school children think about others

For two months the children of the second and fifth grades at Rosemary School have been thinking about the children in less fortunate areas of our own country.

The children of the second grade with their teacher Mrs. Donna Lansing, wrote to several depressed areas, having obtained the addresses from a bulletin released through a church organization. In the letters the children asked what aid was needed in the way of clothing or food which the children might be able to provide.

Having received the lists, the children went to work gathering the clothing, money and canned goods requested. A "Market Day" was also held by the Doug Carlson's fifth grade children, who sold their own outgrown belongings and toys, in order to obtain postage money.

Finally the big day arrived, and 13 large boxes were lovingly packed, wrapped and made ready for shipment. The children all wanted a hand in the actual mailing, so off they all went to the Campbell Post Office.

There the postal clerks, with Postmaster James Hurley in on the action, weighed the packages and came up with a total of $30 in postage.

Parents of the children had donated part of the postage money and the children made up the difference with the money they raised.

A SOFT RIDE---Bill McCall, Campbell High School Junior class president practiced pushing Brenda Hawthorne, junior cheerleader, as part of the junior participation in the rally day held at the high school Thursday. In spite of his fair burden the sophomores took first place, the seniors second and the juniors third with the lowly freshmen coming in last. Informal attire was the costume for the day and each class wore identifying colors.

Camden Chatter

With the school year nearly ended, awards must be given to deserving students, and elections held for the newly emptied offices. Camden held the annual awards assembly, Thursday, May 29, on the football field.

Bank of America awards, Outstanding Sportsman and Gregg Business achievements were just a few of the honors recognized.

The all-school elections for student body offices was held May 22, the day after campaign speeches were heard at the gym rallies. The new student body president and vice-president positions will be held by Dick Bebb and Joe Gutierez, respectively, previously held by Lou Franson and Robin Hirano.

Harry Arends, Jack Davis and Monte Wilson will join Sandy Bignell and Roberta Gray as newly elected council members, replacing Tony Cefalu, Dennis Garvey and Rich Overstreet. Wanda Chaplin will move up from assistant to student manager, taking over from Diane Carman.

Alan Parker and Jim Johnson will rule the new senior class as president and v.p.; Mike Gutierez and Jeff Byron will govern the juniors, while Joyce Fuller and Julie Fuller will control the sophomores.

Camden cross-country runners posted the most successful season of all Camden sports with championships in all three divisions. The most impressive record is held by the freshman team. With a league record of 18-0, they attended a national postal meet and had the top freshman time in the nation.

Their top five runners were team captain Mike Carris, Everrett Merrel, Phil Claussen, Bob Bonson and Terry Smith.

Varsity also is not to be overlooked as they were the undisputed champions of the league with a 17-1 record. Top runners were Scott Blake, Keith Kruse, Tim Tolbert, Dave Hernandez and Bob Stroud.

The sophomore team was forced to share their championship with Saratoga after a 16-2 season. Kinne Strong, Jay Pritchett, Mike Guiron, Jim Sheets and Neil Miller performed well.

District high schools to hold baccalaureate services Sunday

Baccalaureate services will be held Sunday, June 8 for graduating seniors and their parents in the Campbell High School District schools.

Students of Campbell High School will gather in the school auditorium at 5 p.m. Addressing the students will be the Rev. Anthony Wayne Myers of the Congregational Church of Campbell. Student speakers will be Gary Fischer and Shirley Hennessey. Choir numbers will be by the a cappella choir and orchestra selections both directed by Earl Smith.

Other baccalaureate services will be held in the other schools Sunday afternoon as follows:

Camden, 5 p.m. in cafetorium; Del Mar, 2 p.m. in the cafetorium; Prospect, 2:30 p.m. in the cafetorium; and Westmont, 4 p.m. in the gymnasium.

Graduation services will be held in the schools on Thursday and Friday, June 12,13.

Seniors, youth need each other

Mrs. Esther Hagler, a member of the West Valley Senior Action Center, will represent the group at the National Council of Senior Citizens to be held in Washington, D.C. this month.

While in the capitol Mrs. Hagler will also contact Congressman Charles S. Gubser to report what the local group has accomplished with the O.E.O. funds obtained through the Economic Opportunity Commission of Santa Clara County.

The center is presently compiling a directory of resources for the elderly and sick for help with the house and yard work as well as for minor repairs and transportation to health centers. The center will be working closely with the Youth Employment Center in Campbell in correlating jobs and teen-agers looking for work.

A new recreation program on Thursday afternoon is becoming very popular and games and bingo are drawing more participants every time.

Ladies interested in sewing are busy working on cancer pads and lap robes for local hospitals. Another sewing machine for the center is badly needed to expedite the work.

Operetta to be given June 5

Children of the area will have an extra opportunity to see the Young People's Operetta Guild, Inc. production of "The Gallant Tailor", on Thursday, June 5 at the Campbell Elementary School auditorium, 295 Cherry Lane at 7:30 p.m.

The special performance is being given so that the young people of the area will have the chance to see a delightful stage production adaptation by Del Carlo of the Grimm fairy tale, "The Valiant Little Tailor".

The cast is made of youngsters ages seven through 15. Tickets will be sold at the door for 50 cents each. Curtain time is 7:30 p.m. For more information call 257-3683.

Sorenson gets WVC dean post

The Board of Trustees of West Valley College has appointed Warren Sorensen as Assistant Dean of Instruction for Vocational-Technical Education, effective July 1.

He will fill the vacancy caused by the resignation of Dr. Al Riendeau in June, 1968, and he was chosen following interviews by Dr. Wallace W. Hall, college president, and a faculty committee chosen by the Engineering and Technology Division.

Sorensen has been employed as a teacher, curriculum associate, coordinator and supervisor of vocational programs in California for the past 11 years. He has served also as a draftsman for a number of concerns in both Northern and Southern California.

He holds a master's degree from Chico State College, where he also received his bachelor's degree. He is currently pursuing a doctorate at UCLA. Dr. Gordon Aumack, dean of instruction, told the Board that Sorensen received "the highest recommendations" from both employers and State Officials. For the past three years he has served as coordinator of vocational education.

with "Charlie" Gubser

One of the great national debates of the century has been the controversy over the anti-ballistic missile. Unfortunately, like so many complicated issues which are overgeneralized in the press, it has been mired in cliches, emotion and pressure.

Many opponents of the ABM state with conviction that the system won't work and ignore the fact that U.S. technology has amply demonstrated its capacity to produce and operate complex systems. Competent scientists said the hydrogen bomb, the ICBM and POLARIS wouldn't work but they did. And anyone who followed the flight of APOLLO 10 as televised over telestar satellites, knows that we can solve complex technical problems.

Then there is the argument that to build an ABM system would be "provocative" and start an arms race. This argument is based upon the presumption that parity now exists and the Russians will stop development of a strategic capability. But Russia has now passed the United States and is still frantically improving its advantage. The fictitious missile gap which elected President Kennedy in 1960 is a reality in 1969!

It is unfortunate that the U. S. intelligence community has made secrecy an obsession and has often been more successful in keeping information from Americans than from the Soviets. As a result vital facts about Soviet strategic strength are not understood by the public.

Russia has a Gross National Product of about half our own, but her commitment to overall defense is somewhere between 75% and 85% of ours. But what is most startling is that her commitment to strategic forces (missiles, POLARIS type submarines, and bombers) is at least double and probably three times the U.S. effort. U.S. NEWS AND WORLD has stated that 70% of the Soviet military budget is devoted to strategic forces.

From a consensus of reputable sources, it appears that by 1975 the USSR may invest from $50 to $100 billion more in a strategic capability than the United States.

Russia has passed us in military research effort and the production of scientific and engineering graduates (220,000 in 1967 as against 36,000). 85% of Soviet research and development is militarily oriented.

The USSR has more ICBM's than we have and by 1970 will surpass us in submarine launched missiles. Our only advantage is in strategic bombers but our B-52's and B-58's are becoming obsolete and no replacement is in sight due to the failure of the FB-111.

The strategic balance has definitely shifted in favor of the Soviet Union. But Russia is not stopping at superiority She is forging ahead at full speed! To those who say an ABM is "provocative" I ask: "What more can Russia do that she isn't already doing?"

The most logical argument advanced by opponents of the ABM system is – "Even if our MINUTEMEN were destroyed, we would still have our POLARIS system and manned bombers as a deterrent and, therefore, ABM is unnecessary". It is this question which must be explored in an atmosphere devoid of emotion and pressure.

Blind student wins honors at WVC awards assembly

A blind psychology major, a winner of a state-wide business speech contest, a recently widowed mother of four preschool children, and a national swimming champion were among those honored at the recent West Valley College awards assembly Wednesday.

At the fifth annual award meeting, held on the athletic field of the Campbell campus, individuals, community and campus groups bestowed scholarships ranging from $25 to $200 upon needy and scholastically able students. Certificates of recognition and academic achievement awards were also given out by each academic division chairman to deserving students.

Perhaps the most unusual award went to Miss Charlene Regier, a first year student at West Valley College. She has completed a full year's academic course though she is totally blind. Miss Regier, in addition to receiving a cash award, will be entitled to a full year of free lunches for herself and a guest at the A&W Root Beer stand of Campbell resident Floyd M. Little. Little said he was "overwhelmed" at Miss Regier's determination to learn.

Kenneth Foreman, recipient of an academic achievement award, was given special notice by business division chairman Kenneth Schock. Foreman, Schock said, has brought honor to West Valley College by finishing first among eight junior college competitors at the Long Beach Business Convention of the California Marketing Club.

One of the five recipients of the Martin Luther King, Jr. Scholarship was Mrs. Bertha Alvarez, who, despite her responsibilities as a widowed mother of four, has completed two 14-unit semesters at the college. She intends to complete another year of study in the data processing field.

Money for the King scholarship was raised principally through a pancake breakfast held by West Valley faculty.

Wayne H. Clay, chairman of the physical education division of the college, named Ray Rivero as the "Viking of the Year". Rivero, a first year biological science major, set the national junior college swimming record in the 200-yard backstroke

Almond Plaza to open today

Almond Plaza, a new retail shop completely devoted to almonds will open in San Jose's Town and Country Village on Wednesday, June 4.

The shop will be owned and operated by the California Almond Growers Exchange which opened the first Almond Plaza at its Sacramento headquarters in January 1966.

The Sacramento outlet was the first shop in the world devoted exclusively to sales of the popular nut, and was followed by another Almond Plaza last year in San Francisco's Ghirardelli Square.

The Exchange itself is the manufacturing and marketing organization for more than 4,500 California almond growers, who account for over 70% of the almonds grown in the U.S.

Sporting goods owner scores in trap shoot

Joseph Cefalu, owner of the Campbell Sporting Goods and Liquor store, 220 E. Campbell Ave., is receiving congratulations after winning two trophies for achieving 49 out of 50 in trap shooting at 16 yards and at 21 yards.

The young owner of the establishment scored with a beautiful Browning over and above Dianna Grade shotgun. The polished walnut stock is enhanced with hand engraved mounted pheasants, quail, ducks and even a symbolic rabbit on the trigger.

Joe took over the ownership of the local store in October from his uncle, Tony Cefalu, after having worked in the business as assistant manager for six years. A Campbell High School graduate, Joe attended San Jose City College where he took a straight business and sales course. He is a hunting and fishing enthusiast and finds that the combination of sporting goods and potables is quite compatible.

He is a member of the Campbell Junior Chamber of Commerce, the San Jose Elks, a life member of the National Rifle Association, the Campbell Chamber of Commerce, Fly Casters, and the Santa Clara Rifle Club. He is married and he and Mrs. Cefalu are expecting their first child next month.

Since taking over the business, which has been in Campbell for the last 19 years, Joe has expanded the sporting goods department and now carries a complete line of Browning rifles and shotguns and all types of hunting and fishing equipment.

Barclays Bank plans to buy First Valley

First Valley Bank may be acquired by Barclays Bank of California, according to Walter H. Field, First Valley president.

Terms of the sale would provide for the payment of $7,850,000 to the holders of the bank's outstanding 134,409 shares. The transaction is subject to approval by shareholders and supervisory authorities.

"Barclays is a unique banking Group. Even though it is one of the world's oldest and largest institutions, its' units operate with a degree of autonomy not found in California branch systems", Fields said.

"We will continue", he added "to have the authority to be immediately responsive to the requirements of the Santa Clara Valley, but our new affiliation will permit us to go ahead faster with branch expansion in the valley and will augment our own style of service with Barclays international facilities and resources."

Field reported also that all personnel would be retained, that the bank's founding directors, V. G. Ange, Edward S. J. Cali, and Charles Rifredi, would serve as advisory directors and that he would become Executive Vice-President for Santa Clara County and a director of Barclays.

Diplomas for four year old "nursery grads"

Four year olds are not exempt from the pomp and circumstance surrounding graduation ceremonies. Nursery schools, too, feel that the break between pre-school and kindergarten is a significant step in a child's life, so in the nursery schools of the area, the four year old children were seen wearing paper "graduation caps", complete with tassels, and receiving diplomas.

On May 28 the little ones of the Campbell Congregational Nursery School received their promotion and the Campbell Parents Nursery School on Harrison Ave. has scheduled their graduation for June 11.

Mrs. Helen Riedel, director, and Mrs. William Augenstein, president, of the Harrison Ave. School, will present each of the graduating children with a diploma, after the children have put on a small program of songs for their parents.

This year the children will be treated to a Creative Dramatic production of puppetry and storytelling, with hand-made puppets by Mrs. James Zalesny, one of the participating mothers and social chairman for the school. Jack and the Beanstalk and another puppet tale will be included in the program.

GRADUATION, PEE-WEE STYLE---All in a row on top were 37 little boys and girls from the Campbell Congregational Pre-school morning class as they prepared to receive their diplomas and move on from the magical childhood phase and on to the more adult world of kindergarten. In the bottom row they are busily "putting their right/left elbow in" as they sang Loopy Lou. Only some didn't know the right from the left and put both in.

PROUD PARENTS---Mr. and Mrs. Harbhajah S. Nagra were among the proud parents watching the graduation ceremonies in which their son, Paul, on the right, participated. On the left is Dev, their three year old who may be graduating next year from the Congregational Church pre-school. Mrs. Dorine Alvord is the director assisted by Georgia Tyson.

TASSELS ARE IN THE EYE?---Lisa Harmer and B.J. Derham were all dressed up for the occasion of their graduation from the Congregational Pre-School morning class. B. J. was having a bit of a time with the tassel in his eye.

HAPPY DAYS---Julie Clark, foreground, takes her handprint to her mother as David Cleuver starts off with his diploma and handprint during recent graduation ceremonies held at the Congregational Pre-School morning class.

COVENTRY SCHOOL

The Campfire Year at Coventry School is coming to a close with the various groups preparing their last ceremonials for the season.

In the fourth grade Mrs. Petty's group of seven girls will have a ceremonial next week and will receive their Trail Seekers Certificate, and silver charms. The girls will wear their newly-decorated-ceremonial jackets with honor beads showing the seven crafts which they have completed.

The fifth grade girls under Mrs. Sneed's direction will have a large ceremony. The ten girls who have been together in a group since second grade, will receive their Woodgatherer certificate and rings.

At the same time, 11 girls who are now completing their third grade Blue Bird program, will receive their Campfire ties so they can look forward to being Campfire Girls next fall.

Wa Ki TA Group have been busy. They feel that they are honored since they will present the colors at the Grand Council Fire for the district on June 4. Earlier this year they presented the colors for their sponsors, Coventry Home and School Club.

They also had a friendship ceremony last fall where they welcomed the second graders into the Blue Birds and presented their "Little Sisters" with their Blue Bird pins.

Several of the girls from the school will go to Camp Wastahi this summer. There the girls will work on the fun and exciting outdoor program.

FOREST HILL SCHOOL

The fourth grade Campfire Girls joined other groups recently in the district on an overnight at Camp Wastahi, the Campfire Camp located in the Santa Cruz Mountains. Although the weather was a little damp, the girls braved the wet and cold in order to complete part of their requirements for their Trail-seeker Rank on which they are working.

The girls attending were Janet Bevil, Liz Bishop, Leanna Blisard, Debbie Bordeau, Cheryl Fox, Anne Kopecki, Susan Osborne, Teresa Siggers Nancy Wingo, and Lindsay Wong.

Mrs. Margaret Wingo and Mrs. Carol Blisard, Guardian and assistant were in charge.

COVENTRY SCHOOL

On May 20, the Campfire Girls at Coventry School held their traditional Mother-Daughter Tea. It was a lovely event enjoyed by all. The girls had done the baking and decorating and as a special treat Taieko Mifume, the Pacific Neighbors exchange student at San Jose State College told the girls and their mothers about life in Japan.

GRAND COUNCIL FIRE

Wednesday, June 4, 6:30 p.m., is the time set for District IV's Grand Council Fire. It will be held at the First Baptist Church Amphitheater on Ironwood Dr. off the Almaden Expressway. Friends and relatives are invited. Each of the girls in the Campfire program have raised money this year to buy a set of Indian drums to be used at the Grand Council Fire and other ceremonials.

Fire Dept. awards baby sitting certificates

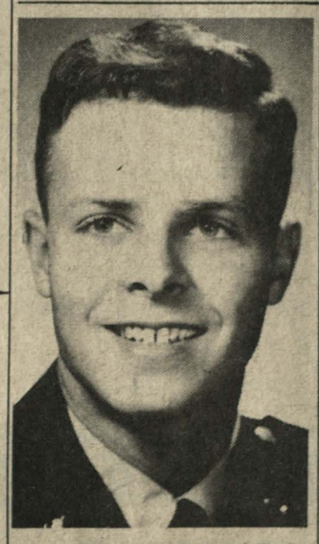
Teen-age students who have been attending volunteer evening classes conducted by the Campbell Fire Department, received their certificates of competence as baby-sitters last night at impressive ceremonies.

The nine-week course, just completed, is the second one of the highly successful course being conducted by the Campbell Fire Department as a public service under the direction of Jack Christian, fire engineer. The popular seminar has been an instant success, and enrollment ranks were closed following the opening of the first course on March 10. The next course will be offered in the fall.

Qualified experts in many fields have been recruited to instruct the boys and girls in the many fields that actually are covered by the term "baby-sitter". The children have received instruction in mouth-to-mouth resuscitation, use of the telephone and emergency numbers, baby-bathing, with a real live baby being used in the demonstration, kitchen safety and food preparation, and even what games are suitable for small children and how to read to them.

Graduation ceremonies were held in the multi-purpose room of the Campbell Elementary School with Dean Chamberlin, Campbell Vice-mayor on hand to pass out the certificates, to the 72 boys and girls, ages 11 to 14, who have completed the course.

The names of the students who are now qualified to act as trained baby-sitters will be placed in the files of the Youth Employment Service



GRADUATES---Kenneth Robert Benbow, son of Mr. and Mrs. Standish R. Benbow of 403 Kings Ct., Campbell, was awarded an Associate of Arts degree from New Mexico Military Institute (junior college) at the recent commencement exercises.

He was a cadet lieutenant and on the commandant's list at NMMI which observed its 76th commencement with three days of festivities and ceremonies. A final review parade was one of the highlights of the three days.

June 7th set for piano recital

A piano recital will be presented Saturday, June 7 at 2 p.m. by the pupils of Margarite E. Reich. The recital will be held in the recreation hall at 270 Umbarger Road, San Jose.

Presenting selections in the recital will be Deanna Grilli, David Burgess, Jennifer Christofferson, Sandy Stauverman, Josephine Hayley, Dana Spies, Kimm Johnson, Luanne Cheda, Danny Burns, Debbie Williams, Janice Sequin, Pauline Sequin, Sherie Geyer and Terry Lynn Aversa.

Mrs. Reich, a resident of Campbell, has been teaching piano, organ and guitar in this area for 15 years. She is also a Progressive Series Teacher.

Police plan bike auction June 14

Campbell police, under the direction of Captain Don Burr, veteran auctioneer, will stage the spring auction of unclaimed articles recovered by the police on Saturday, June 14 at 10 a.m. in the City Hall parking lot.

According to Captain Burr, 25 bikes that have been held for six months or more will be put on the block.

In addition, 16 other items, covering a wide range, will also be sold to the highest bidders.

Rocks break windows in school, station

Rock throwers have apparently taken over from the burglars using pry tools. Over the Memorial Day weekend the San Tomas School was burglarized when a bathroom window was broken and entry made into the school building. A tape recorder and accessories valued at $101 were taken by the thief.

Lyell's Chevron Station, 3405 Winchester also suffered a loss when entry was gained into the business after rocks were pitched through a window. All available loose tools and cash was taken, total loss at $1,293.90.
